

- Most have a constitution: legal document that lays out basic rules of society and contains the core laws that define the nation and how it will be governed

Can a civic nation?

RELATED TERMS

- Civic Nation: People who share certain political beliefs and values
 - Citizens are equal – have the same rights and responsibilities
 - Differences in language, ethnicity, culture and religion do not matter
 - Most have a constitution: legal document that lays out basic rules of society and contains the cores laws that define the nation and how it will be governed
 - Canada – a civic nation?

Collective Consciousness

A group or nation may share a collective consciousness when its members collectively share similar values, beliefs, and internalized feelings based on their shared experiences.

A collective consciousness can develop when the people of a nation focus on their identity as a group rather than on their identities as individuals