

Stalingrad

- Summer 1942 - German troops were approaching Stalingrad
- Stalin rushed all available troops to the east bank of the Volga, some from as far away as Siberia.

Approaching this place, [Stalingrad], soldiers used to say: "We are entering hell." And after spending one or two days here, they say: "No, this isn't hell, this is ten times worse than hell."

Marked by constant close quarters combat and disregard for military and civilian casualties by both sides, it is among the bloodiest battles in the history of warfare
