

THE SOVEREIGN

★ Whatever abuses arise from his possession of such power, the society will nevertheless remain a peaceful one-and hence the abuses of power are to be preferred to living in “chaos.”

★ Laws are effective, if, and only if, they are enforced. And the enforcing agency can do so only if it is granted absolute power.

✪ Since sovereignty is created by a “covenant,” or “contract,” the subject retains all those “natural rights” that can not be transferred by covenant. For instance, people always have liberty to defend their lives against the sovereign.
