

“All day and all night, the guns blasting the way for fighting men.
Millions of shells helping to win this close, bloody and ferocious battle in Normandy...”

Matthew Halton, reporting for CBC Radio

“My Dear Mr. And Mrs Duncan:

It is with my deepest regret that I have to write you this letter.
Your son, my Platoon Commander, met with an accident which proved fatal... I can say with great pride, that he will always be remembered by his boys and myself. We buried him in an orchard.
In a good a grave as is permitted under these conditions. I must close now with regret of the whole platoon on your sad bereavement.

Yours,

Sergeant M. Brimble
