- 3300 tanks crossed into Soviet Border
- 3 – 4 Million men were assembled and sent into the USSR under German command
- Material was stockpiled within the East Soviet Border
- German troops were slightly outnumbered by Soviet troops on the frontier, as well as a number of the USSR's allies.

- The further into the Soviet Union Germany advanced, the more difficult it became to supply troops with supplies
- Tanks were under-gunned and the gear that soldiers had along did not protect them from the weather.
- This was especially due to weather and transportation was very limited.
