

THE HOUSE OF COMMONS

The House of Commons is the major law-making body in Canada's federal political system.

- The members of the House of Commons debate study and vote on laws proposed for Canada, called bills

- Members of parliament, or M.P.s, are the members of the House of Commons.
They are elected by the voters.

- Each M.P represents the voters of one riding, or district.

- All proceedings of the legislative branch are in Canada's two official languages: French and English.

THE HOUSE OF COMMONS

The House of Commons is the major law-making body in Canada's federal political system.

- The members of the House of Commons debate study and vote on laws proposed for Canada, called bills
- Members of parliament, or M.P.s, are the members of the House of Commons. They are elected by the voters.
- Each M.P represents the voters of one riding, or district.
- All proceedings of the legislative branch are in Canada's two official languages: French and English.

- Most M.P.s belong to political parties. The party with the most M.Ps usually forms the government. The other parties form the opposition.

