

Agent Smith

- Discusses:
 - the division of labor and free trade,
 - self-interest in exchange,
 - consumer sovereignty,
 - the limits on government intervention,
 - price, and the general structure of the market.

Smith was the first individual to advocate for laissez-faire in the market place. His ideas were based on a system of competition.

If the vaccine was dangerous they would've given it to poor people first, not politicians and billionaires.
